SONOMA, AUGUST 6, 1898.

THE WATER QUESTION TO BE AGAIN SUBMITTED.

At last Wednesday's meeting of the City Trustees by a unanimous vote of all members present, to-wit: Trustees Davis, Seipp, Hartin and Harris, the first of a series of water ordinances was passed to print and will be found in another column. The ordinance sets forth that public interest and necessity demand the acquisition and construction of a municipal water works system. The Trustees in again submitting the proposition to the voters will do so because they truly and honestly believe, in fact they know, that if we are to have an abundance of pure, clear, sparkling water in this town for fire and domestic purposes it will have to be provided through the medium of the bond proposition. The election will be held the second week of October.

In the meantime let every unselfish citizen stand in on the proposition to the end that Sonoma may take a place alongside the progressive towns and cities of California.

POLITICAL.

The Republican Convention meets in Cloverdale next Tuesday.

The Democrats will hold their primaries for nominating county officers on Thursday, August 11th.

This political announcement of Newton V. V. Smyth will be found in these columns. Mr. Smyth, who is a licensed surveyor and City Engineer of Santa Rosa, is out for the Republican nomination of County Surveyor. As Mr. Smyth has twice stepped aside for the present incumbent at two previous conventions it seems to us that he is entitled to the nomination this time.

Miss M. T. Redmond, principal of the Normal School, Santa Rosa, announces that she is a candidate for the nomination of Superintendent of Schools of Sonoma county, subject to the decision of the Democratic Convention, which convenes in Santa Rosa on Monday, August 22nd. Miss Redmond is in every sense qualified for the position and if nominated will give us "Blacks" a lively run.

Santa Rosa Business College.

This excellent institution of learning will begin its next school year on September 5, 1898. During the last six months forty-six young men and women received their diplomas of graduation from this school, a large number of whom have already accepted lucrative positions. Write for circulars.

Walking the Floor.

When a business man gets to the point where he cannot sleep at night, where he is so shattered of nerve that he cannot even remain in his bed, and he has to get up and pace the floor—it is time for that man to bring himself up with a round turn. If he does not, it means nervous prostration and mental, if not physical, death. For a man who gets into this condition there is a remedy that will brace him up, put him on his feet and make a man of him again. It is Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It goes to the bottom of things. It searches out the first cause. When a man is in this condition you can put your finger on one of two spots and hit that first cause—the stomach or the liver or both. This great medicine acts directly on these spots. It promptly transforms a weak stomach into a healthy one. It facilitates the flow of digestive juices and makes digestion and assimilation perfect. It gives a man an appetite like a boy's. It invigorates the life-giving elements of the food, and makes it pure, rich and plentiful. The blood is the life current, and when it is filled with the elements that build new and healthy tissues, it does not take long to make a man well and strong. It builds firm muscular flesh tissues and strong and steady nerve fibers. It puts new life, vigor and vitality into every atom and organ of the body. It cures nervous exhaustion and prostration. Nothing "just as good" can be found at medicine stores. "I had suffered about eleven years with a pain in the back of my head and back," writes Mr. Robert Hubbard, of Vassar, Lincoln Co., Ark. "I suffered for eleven years and spent a great deal of money for doctors and medicine, but did not get relief. Then I tried four bottles of the Golden Medical Discovery and improved greatly. I sent for five more and now am glad to tell anyone that I am in good health."

A PORTIO exchange has this: "There are women who are comely, there are women who are homely, but be careful how the latter thing you say. There are women who are wealthy, there are women who are healthy, there are women who will always have their way. There are women who are truthful, there are women who are youthful—was there ever any woman who were old? There are women who are sainted, there are women who are painted, there are women who are worth their weight in gold. There are women who are tender, there are women who are slender, there are women very large and fat and red. There are women who are married, there are women who have tarried, there are women who are talkless—but they are dead."

BUSINESS IS BUSINESS.

By ALFRED H. HUBBARD.

In this country we haven't got titles like these Marquises, Counts and such. And our Generals don't get horrible names like this Weyler, they call the "Butch."

But our boys stay in like good business men. When they shoot they shoot to kill. And they nickname their Generals "Fighting Joe," "Stonewall" or "Pecos Bill."

The leaders we've sent to manage affairs, don't go much on the plumed chap-eau. But brogans with shirt and pants and straw hat will be pretty much all the go.

It ain't sashes and crosses and gold lilted swords that are needed to win this fight. But brains like Hobson's business men had when they sunk that ship in the night.

McKinley and Alger are business men both who run big affairs. "Teddy" Roosevelt and "Bucky" O'Neill ain't men who're accustomed to big easy chairs. When the war is over and victory won, why of course they'll be all bows and smiles. But at present they're hard-headed business men like Major General Miles.

Big Price for a Broken Heart.

Not long since a Danville, Ill., jury ordered the male defendant in a breach of promise case to pay the competent sum of $54,333.33 to the afflicted fair one. Though it is a pretty high estimate of blighting affection, there is another estimate which, if not in dollars and cents exactly as high, yet in general consideration of excellence reaches as high an altitude. This is the estimate of the people as to the efficacy of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters as a remedy for constipation. The action of this gentle but effective laxative is never accompanied by the griping so marked in the operation of most cathartics. It is an incomparable remedy for any preventive of malarial, rheumatic and kidney complaints, and a promoter of appetite and sleep.

COURT PROCEEDINGS.

Judge Albert G. Burnett presided in the Superior Court on Monday and called the calendar for both departments. A number of interesting matters were disposed of.

J. W. Franklin, an insolvent, was granted his discharge in insolvency.

Emil Claquin and Amerigo Baldocchi of Sonoma were admitted to citizenship in the United States.

In the estate of Michael Young a petition to sell real estate was granted.

The matter of the estate of Eliza Salter was transferred to Marin county.

The settlement of the final account of the estate of John B. Smith was continued to August 15th.

The granting of the discharge in re, E. H. McCloud was continued to August 8th.

The demurrer was withdrawn and five days given to answer in the suit of Julia A. Arlington vs. Charles W. Arlington.

The action of Foster vs. Foster was submitted and taken under advisement.

The arraignment of Sam Sin Clair was set for August 8th.

Doctor Gave Hood's

Reduced in Weight by Serious Illness—Gaining Fast by Taking Hood's Sarsaparilla. "The grip left my system in a very weak state. I had fallen off in weight from 140 to 110 pounds. I called on my doctor to give me something to build me up. He advised me to try a change of climate and also gave me Hood's Sarsaparilla, with the remark, 'that is the best,' and that I would not need any other medicine. After I had taken the first bottle I found myself greatly improved. I procured another bottle and also a box of Hood's Pills and I was soon perfectly well. I have since taken Hood's Sarsaparilla as a tonic and blood medicine and have always found it good. My husband and little daughter have also taken it with benefit. I have found Hood's Pills an excellent cathartic." Mrs. C. F. Rorer, Vernon, Sutter Co., via Nicolaus, California.

THE EXCELLENCE OF SYRUP OF FIGS

is due not only to the originality and simplicity of the combination, but also to the care and skill with which it is manufactured by scientific processes known to the CALIFORNIA FIG SYRUP CO. only, and we wish to impress upon all the importance of purchasing the true and original remedy. As the genuine Syrup of Figs is manufactured by the CALIFORNIA FIG SYRUP CO. only, a knowledge of that fact will assist one in avoiding the worthless imitations manufactured by other parties. The high standing of the CALIFORNIA FIG SYRUP CO. with the medical profession, and the satisfaction which the genuine Syrup of Figs has given to millions of families, makes the name of the Company a guaranty of the excellence of its remedy. It is far in advance of all other laxatives, as it acts on the kidneys, liver and bowels without irritating or weakening them, and it does not gripe nor nauseate. In order to get its beneficial effects, please remember the name of the Company—

SHE'S VERY DEAR.

She's very dear! So fair, so sweet, so true!
Lips red as wine, eyes of the deep, deep blue
And full of love and dreams.
Her rich hair golden gleams.
She like an angel seems. She's very dear!

She's very dear! She's childlike, yet mature.
Here is affection that will e'er endure—
Tender, full of the grace
Born of a gentle race.
An honest, trustful face. She's very dear!

She's very dear! Her smile's the little ray
Of sunlight that illumines my day.
It is all true, but hear:
She spends, or very near,
Ten thousand every year! She's very dear!

CAME HOME EARLY.

There was no one in Sigby's office but Sigby himself.

His stenographer had gone out to lunch. So had the bookkeeper and a red-headed young man who generally occupied a desk opposite Sigby's own.

Sigby sat with his feet under his desk and thought. To aid him in this mental effort he chewed the end of a cigar and scowled at a picture in a small silver frame that stood under the pigeonholes at the back of his desk.

It seemed to occur to him that he could think better with his feet up, so he pulled out the slide at the side of his desk and put them up on that. After that he seemed to get on.

Suddenly the scowl became a half smile. His feet came down with a thump. He jumped up and went to the telephone and turned the little crank at the side energetically.

"Gimme double four eight—main."

He stood square on his feet, threw back his shoulders and looked contented. Then he lowered his head again and said "yeh" into the transmitter as the number was repeated back and nipped the ragged end of his cigar with his strong, white teeth as he waited.

"Hello! Fred Gibson there?"

"Toll 'im to come to the phone."

"Hello, Gib!"

"Say, old man, you got to come and get me out tonight."

"Yeh, that's what I said."

"No; no bail."

He laughed into the phone and said: "Ah, go to the d—!"

"Yeh?"

"No. Now see here; I've promised to go out with Bronson to meet some merry people tonight, and I've been getting out to banquets and clubs and lodge meetings and business men's meetings and political meetings and—any old thing until my list is worn out. See?"

"Yeh."

"Huh?"

"Yes. You've got to come over tonight and get me out."

"Yeh."

"You're on to your job."

"I guess so."

"A board meeting?"

"Strawboard, cardboard, day board, clapboard?"

"Oh, a meeting of the board of directors?"

"Oh, I see!"

"Yeh."

"You bet!"

"Well, they're a good many—neat, but not gaudy, as the monkey!"

"Huh?"

"What's that?"

"Oh, as near seven as you can make it!"

"I shan't be going out, you know, at all. You'll have to drag me."

"That's it!"

"Got time to drop over and smile?"

"All right."

"Yeh."

"Yeh."

"All right."

"Goodbye!"

Sigby winked at his newspaper when the bell rang at 7 o'clock.

His wife was putting the baby to sleep. She stopped rocking and listened to see if her latest acquisition in the servant girl line would go to the door.

"Annie must be up stairs," she said, laying baby in a big chair containing a pillow and going into the hall.

She reappeared, followed by Gibson.

"Hello, old man. Glad to see you. Sit down," said Sigby, springing up and shaking hands as Mrs. Sigby wheeled an easy chair forward.

He had on a pair of slippers and a house jacket that had evidently seen little use.

Mrs. Sigby took up the baby and resumed her rocker, beaming contentedly upon her big, handsome husband and his visitor.

"Well, it's an important meeting, Sigby, and we've all got to be there," resumed Gibson, after he had stated the object of his call.

"Howland tried to reach you over the phone twice, but couldn't catch you, so I told him I'd see that you got there."

Sigby had settled back in his big, leather covered chair and put his slippered right foot on his left knee with the air of a man whose cables could not drag from the comforts of his home.

He reached over and took a Japanese jar containing cigars from the table and held it out toward Gibson, saying:

"Now, old man, you take a smoke and make yourself comfortable. You don't get me out of this house tonight. I have been going to banquets and meetings till I'm tired out, and the board will have to meet some other time or get along without me."

"But, man, you've got to go," said Gibson.

"I've promised to produce you, and dead or alive I've got to do it. There's important business coming up, and nothing can be done unless every member is present."

"The Ball coupler matter coming up?"

"Yes, and the Goodrich business."

"Gad, is that so?"

Sigby looked thoughtful, placed his left thumb on his left cheek, curled his fingers around his chin, stroked an imaginary beard and said, well, if that was the case he 'sposed he'd have to go.

"Now, isn't that too bad?" said Mrs.

Sigby, "just when Ben—Mr. Sigby and I were getting settled for a pleasant evening."

She grew wistful in the eyes as she spoke and saw her husband start to go up stairs to change the house jacket and slippers for his coat and shoes.

Gibson got acquainted with the baby, who had been awakened by the voices and sat bolt upright on her mother's knee and was listening to the soft voice of Mrs. Sigby, telling him what a busy man her husband had got to be and how very little she saw of him now days, when he came down and stopped in the hall to put on his overcoat.

"You won't be very late, will you, Ben?" she said as he came into the room drawing on his gloves.

"Why, I can't say, my dear. Liable to be rather late, isn't it, Gib?"

"Yes, sure to be late. Never saw anything like a board meeting to hang on."

"Mr. Gibson, you must come again when you can spend the evening with us. We've lived in the same neighborhood so long I feel as though we ought to be old friends," said Mrs. Sigby.

"I will. I'll be glad to," returned Gibson heartily.

Mrs. Sigby brought a little tray containing matches, and the two men lit cigars and went out.

When they were on the sidewalk, Sigby burst out laughing and said: "Gib, that was smooth."

"Sharp!" Gibson, "that was smooth."

"Sharp!" Gibson, "that was smooth."

"That board meeting was a great play, old man," chuckled Sigby.

"Takes brains to do a thing like that, doesn't it?" returned Gibson.

"I tell you you got to be smarter'n chain lightning, to fool a woman," said Sigby.

"Yes, that was about the most brilliant thing I ever had a hand in. Two big, husky liars like us fooling one little, innocent, inexperienced woman was certainly a great achievement. I'm proud of it."

They snaked and walked in silence a few yards, when Sigby burst out: "Hang you, Gib, you needn't make a man feel smaller'n a two spot! My wife's good as gold, but she's slower than"—He seemed to have difficulty in finding a word that expressed the degree of slowness, so he said, "St. Louis."

"You know your own business, old man, but don't ever ask me to take a hand at that game again. If I had a thing like that"—Gibson jerked his thumb over his shoulder—"snuggling up under my vest, you wouldn't catch me chasing any butterflies—not on your life!"

They had reached the corner, and Sigby signaled a passing car.

"Better come along," he said, with his hand on the rail.

"No, thanks. Good night!"

"Good night, old man!"

"Oh, Ben, I'm so glad!" said Mrs. Sigby, sitting up in bed and putting her arms around Mr. Sigby's neck as he came in at 11 p. m. and stooped to kiss her.

There was a thrill in her voice that told how glad she was.

"I wasn't a very long board meeting, was I?"

"No, I got away as soon as I could. I wanted to get home before you went to sleep."

"Darling!" Mrs. Sigby's voice broke, and she laid her little blond head on the broad breast of her husband and sobbed.

She said it was because—she was so glad—that he came home—early.—Chicago Record.

The secret of New York's greatness.

Ernest Ingersoll writes an article for St. Nicholas on the Greater New York, his paper being entitled "Reasoning Out a Metropolis." Mr. Ingersoll says:

The secret of New York's proud greatness—why she is and always will be the imperial city of North America in wealth and influence and commercial power, even though some other town may some time in the future count a few more inhabitants—is found in the word "transportation."

New York stands in the best place for the distribution of people and things, the raw material for manufactures, the products of mills and furnaces and shops, the yield of farms and mines and forests and the goods going and coming across the seas. Valleys that form easy and natural roads open out south, west, north and northeast, like the folds of a fan, and the responses of a great country flow naturally along them toward her. In front of her is the ocean gateway, open to the fleets of the world.

New York is New York because she stands where the wealth of the new world and the treasures of the old world most easily and naturally meet, and she will be grander and even more splendid as time rolls on.

An American Child.

There is a 6-year-old child in Tioga who is firmly convinced that "he will be a man before his mother," says the Philadelphia Record. He was spending the afternoon at a neighbor's house the other day and became utterly oblivious of the flight of time. After awhile the mother of his little playmate remarked that she thought it would be a good idea for the youthful visitor to run home. He paid no attention to the remark, and about half an hour later she said to the youngster, "Milton, don't you think your mother will be worried about you?" Looking up from the toys with which he was playing, Milton promptly replied: "Oh, I don't know! The old lady gets rattled once in awhile."

Convenient.

Mrs. Lakeside—I am going to study law.

Mrs. Esplanade—How nice! Then you can get your own divorces.—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

There was a thrill in her voice that told how glad she was.

"I wasn't a very long board meeting, was I?"

"No, I got away as soon as I could. I wanted to get home before you went to sleep."

"Darling!" Mrs. Sigby's voice broke, and she laid her little blond head on the broad breast of her husband and sobbed.

ONE OF TWO WAYS.

The bladder was created for one purpose, namely, a receptacle for the urine, and as such is not liable to any form of disease except by one of two ways. The first way is from imperfect action of the kidneys. The second way is from careless local treatment of other diseases.

Chief Cause.

Unhealthy urine from unhealthy kidneys is the chief cause of bladder troubles. So the womb, like the bladder, was created for one purpose, and if not doctored too much is not liable to weakness or disease, except in rare cases. It is situated back of and very close to the bladder, therefore any pain, disease or inconvenience manifested in the kidneys, back, bladder or urinary passages is often, by mistake, attributed to female weakness or womb trouble of some sort. The error is easily made and may be as easily avoided. To find out correctly, set your urine aside for twenty-four hours; a sediment or settling indicates kidney or bladder trouble. The mild and the extraordinary effect of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney and bladder remedy, is soon realized. If you need a medicine you should have the best. At druggists fifty cents and one dollar. You may have a sample bottle and pamphlet, both sent free by mail. Mention the Index-Tribune and send your address to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. The proprietor of this paper guarantees the genuineness of this offer.
